

Project is 'dubious'

WASHINGTON — The camel has his nose under the tent again. What is starting off as a modest $1.7 million expenditure for a "feasibility study" of a federal water project in South Dakota may eventually, in the tradition of congressional budget-making, swell into a $1.3 billion bondboggle.

The feasibility study itself will cost more than $8 million, according to a Bureau of Reclamation planning memo. And the way things work in this town, a project that has had $8 million spent on it becomes difficult to kill. Like a greenhorn gambler, Congress rarely cuts its losses and runs from a project once started, no matter how questionable it is.

The so-called Cendak Irrigation project is dubious indeed. It would bring Missouri River water to a few hundred farms and nearby towns in central South Dakota. But there are several things wrong with Cendak, including high cost, insoluble engineering problems — and the fact that the farmers in the area don't want it.

Even the Reclamation Bureau engineers assigned to do the preliminary work have become so frustrated by officials' refusal to heed their warnings that they have resorted to derisively humorous memos to make their point.

One memo laid out the rules for the "Cendak Drains Game," suggesting that bureau officials have glossed over the serious obstacles the engineers face.

Another memo took off on the "Star Wars" movies with a synopsis and cast of "Drain Wars," with bureau brass hats playing such roles as Luke Pipewalker, Princess Leankie and Han Manholo. The villain, Darth Vapors, is played by Herb Greydanus, a private consultant hired by the state to promote Cendak. Greydanus said he wasn't offended, because he hasn't seen the "Star Wars" movies.

Between the two memos, some engineers were reassigned, ostensibly because they couldn't reach agreement. But sources at the bureau told our associates Donald Goldberg and Corky Johnson the engineers were shipped out because they had questioned the feasibility of the project.

Other problems with Cendak included: — Dubious estimates of the benefits of Cendak, which bureau brass figured at $1.02 to $1.29 for each dollar spent. "The creative genius necessary to come up with that benefit-cost ratio will boggle your mind," observed the Drain Wars memo. The benefits include $9.5 million to the railroads in the region, for hauling the extra crops that farmers would produce. Critics say a water project shouldn't be used as a back-door method of subsidizing railroads.

A preliminary study by the Army Corps of Engineers estimates that a simple Missouri River pipeline — instead of the network of canals envisaged for Cendak — would provide water to the area for about 30 cents less per 1,000 gallons.

WATCH ON WASTE: On the golden anniversary of its creation, the National Labor Relations Board recently staged a five-day excursion for 157 Washington and regional officials at a resort in Clearwater Beach, Fla. The bill for the affair — including lodging, meals and travel — comes to $110,000. Those attending were given free T-shirts and caps commemorating the board's 50 years (lesser employees can buy the T-shirts for $5 and the caps for $6). The conferees also got an afternoon off to see the sights, including nearby Egmont Center. An agency spokesman said it was the first time in nine years that the headquarters and regional brass had gotten together.

Illiteracy in U.S. has

Drastic economic effect

How many friends and relatives do you know who have difficulty with reading and writing?

Most of the time, illiterates do not want very many people to know that they cannot read or write. They are embarrassed and very adept at hiding this fact.

For this reason, it is difficult to get local statistics on the extent of this problem. However, the Illinois State Board of Education does have statistics on the number of persons 18 years and older with less than eight years of education.

Madison County has 32,705 people, while St. Clair County has 34,399 people in this category.

Having less than an eighth grade education does not automatically mean that a person is illiterate, but it probably contributes to the problem of functional illiteracy.

Functional illiteracy means that a person is unable to read, write or perform simple math problems well enough to function normally in our society.

Nationally, it is estimated over 26 million Americans are defined as functionally illiterate. According to one study, 14 percent of the adult population cannot write a check clearly enough for it to clear a bank; 28 percent cannot calculate the correct amount of change they should receive after making a purchase at a dime store.

A nationwide study on "Adult Performance Levels" by the University of Texas in 1975 revealed that more than one in five adults cannot meet such common requirements as interpreting a bus schedule or completing a job application.

In short, these American adults do not have the basic reading abilities they need to function day to day.

This same study found the age, sex and race percentages for illiteracy listed below. The numbers on the right are estimates based on the application of these percentages to the 1980 census figures.

Sixteen percent of those 18-29 years old, or 7,887,200 persons; 11 percent, 30-39 years old, or 4,467,000 persons; 19 percent, 40-49 years old, or 4,323,640; 28 percent, 50-59 years old, or 6,530,440; and 33 percent of those 60 and older, representing 12,470,650 persons.

The study showed 17 percent of males over age 18 are shown as having literacy problems; 23,154,880; 44 percent, black, 7,793,380; and 56 percent, Hispanic, 5,657,920.

Another fact about the extent of illiteracy is that approximately 75 percent of persons over 25 years old who have been imprisoned have not completed high school. Thirty-five to 42 percent have an eighth grade education or less.

The National Commission on Excellence in Education reports that 13 percent of all 17 year olds in the United States are functionally illiterate. Among minority youth, functional illiteracy now approaches 40 percent.

Why are people illiterate?

There may be a different answer for each illiterate. An adult illiterate may have quit school, have a learning disability, need glasses or a hearing aid.

He or she may have had a physical or emotional disability or been uninterested in learning at an earlier age, had an ineffective teacher or simply been unable to learn to read at the time reading instruction began.

Unfortunately, parents who cannot read often have children with the same problem. Television has also had a tremendous effect on reading habits.

There is no one reason. The economic impact of illiteracy: Estimates vary but U.S. News and World Report, May 17, 1982, put the cost of welfare and unemployment compensation due to illiteracy at $6 billion annually.

Dr. Robert M. Worthington, assistant secretary for Vocational and Adult Education in the Reagan Administration, notes that the percentage of people with less than six years' education who are on public assistance is twice that of people with six to eight years' schooling, and is four times that of people with at least some high school education.

Aside from the public expense involved in maintaining people who are "casualties" in part because of illiteracy, lack of education is a liability in the workplace. It necessitates costly training programs and often leads to product damage, industrial accidents, recalls and lawsuits.

What is being done on illiteracy? Public, non-profit and profit making agencies in America recognize the problem and are working toward the solution.

The public Adult Basic Education program (ABE) teaches reading and other survival skills and provides alternative means for students to finish high school.

The American Library Association works closely with ABE programs. Two national voluntary organizations concentrate primarily on teaching basic reading and English as a second language. They are the Literacy Volunteers of America Inc. (LVA) and Laubach Literacy Action.

Private organizations support the fight against illiteracy with financial contributions, in-kind services and corporate literacy programs.

Within the State of Illinois, we have the Illinois Literacy Council, headed by Secretary of State Jim Edgar. As state librarian, the secretary of state's office has funded literacy programs to various regional library systems across the state.

The Illinois State Board of Education, Adult and Continuing Education Section, has funded 88 smaller, literacy programs in the state.

Locally, Venice-Lincoln Technical Center and Belleville Area College, have small grants for literacy programs.

Illinois has a hotline number — 1-800-321-9511 — which will refer volunteers or persons in need of services to the nearest local program providing literacy services.

Experts help stall rate hike

To the Editor: Illinois Power Co. was dealt a severe setback Aug. 7 when the Illinois Commerce Commission rejected its bid for an immediate rate increase.

The Citizens Utility Board argued during the 11-month case that IPC didn't need a rate hike at this time and shouldn't get one penny for the Clinton nuclear power plant until that plant is licensed to provide customers with utility service.

Customers will not see another rate hike until fuel is loaded at Clinton. IPC estimates that the cost of fuel next January. But if you believe it can make that date, we have some other fantasy stories to tell you about Clinton.

The ICC agreed with CUB that IPC does not need an increase at this time. All the claims of financial distress were nonsense and CUB proved it.

This order, coupled with the ICC's decision to charge stockholders, not ratepayers, for any additional cost overruns, signifies a major shift in attitude. This is the first time the ICC has listened to consumers and told the utility, "Enough is enough."

We also applaud denying IPC a profit on its cancelled Clinton II plant, and rejecting a rapid, 3-year writeoff of the project. ICC's decision to allow a 5-year writeoff with no profit follows the arguments made by CUB witness Rudy Bertsch, Alaska Public Utilities Commission engineering economist. He urged the costs be charged off over 10 years.

Our other expert witness, Carl Danneberg, Harvard economist, testified that the utility had manipulated statistics to justify its bid for higher rates.

CUB, a 120,000-member statewide utility watchdog, also sponsored a series of public hearings on the rate request.

Beautification of Granite City can become source of pride

Beautification of Granite City is one of Mayor Van Dee Cruse's projects and Tuesday night, during the City Council meeting, he announced the formation of a beautification committee.

"They are going to work to reverse the image from that of a dirty, rundown steel town across the river from St. Louis to being the cleanest, neatest and most attractive industrial community in Illinois," he said.

For many years the Beautification Committee of the Women's Division of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce has been geared in the same direction.

The committee members have continuously planted trees and shrubs throughout the Quad-City area, from Venice to Mitchell. They also weed and plant flowers in small parks in the city when needed.

As another facet of their programs, certificates of recognition have been presented to area business places and industrial sites whose owners have painted and renovated the buildings and planted attractive landscaping.

Also, members of the Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society have participated in extensive remodeling of older and sometimes rundown homes. Their restoration is an incentive to other homeowners to improve their property.

The DNRS has planted trees and maintained mini or pocket parks in the downtown area to beautify its neighborhood.

An old adage, "Paint covers a multitude of sins," is true. But a coat of paint sometimes transforms a house into a totally different appearance.

The Granite City Street Department has distributed newly-painted trash barrels throughout the city for the convenience of residents who only need to walk a few extra steps to "stash their trash" instead of littering the streets and parks.

Both the city street department and the Granite City Park District cut grass and weeds and clean up various small parks in the city.

The mayor's long-range plan is commendable and well worth everyone's consideration. Those who wish to actively participate on a committee have the opportunity to do so. Or, if they wish only to upgrade their property, now is the time.

Mayor Cruse said, "Showing pride in ourselves by keeping our properties neat and painted and adding a few trees and shrubs can make a world of difference to our town."

"Although we have an excellent industrial location, there is much that can be done to improve the attractiveness of our city. Every business and every homeowner can and should do his part in putting our 'best foot forward' in the competition to attract new jobs," the mayor added.

This project is also one for merchants to consider. Several businessmen have accepted the challenge and changed the total appearance of their buildings.

Customers will be appreciative of a clean facility, interior as well as exterior.

It seems the city and the beautification committees are asking the people, "Do you want to live in a littered, backward city or do you have enough pride to help beautify the city and live in an attractive area?"

I am hopeful all three organizations will begin to coordinate their plans and will accomplish a new look for the city.

The mayor named Mrs. Marilyn McKeehan, 3244 Erin Drive, as chairman of the newly organized group, to be known as "Project City Pride."

It can become a real source of justified pride in this community, if we all make it happen.

CHECKING FOR HOT SPOTS. Granite City firefighters Jim Monaghan, left, and Dan Worthen check the interior of the home at 2821 Denver St. Thursday morning for hot spots trying to rekindle. The front half of the frame house was gutted by a fire that injured both the owner and the lady who was renting it. (Staff photo by Patrick Foley)

Two injured in house fire

Two people were injured Thursday when a house at 2821 Denver St. caught on fire.

Both the occupant and the owner were in the home when the fire broke out at about 10 a.m. and both were burned when they attempted to extinguish the fire.

Bill Sanders, 80, the owner, suffered smoke inhalation and burns to his head. He was taken by car to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was placed in intensive care.

Officials said Friday his condition is improving. He was to have been moved from the intensive care unit Friday afternoon.

Beverly Seybert, 51, the occupant, was released from SEMC after being treated for smoke inhalation and minor burns to her hand and arm.

The fire apparently started when an air conditioner in the living room short-circuited. The short started a fire that reached an upholstered chair and sofa.

Sanders was in the basement, changing an electrical fuse, when the fire broke out. Seybert was in the kitchen.

As the fire spread, the two attempted to extinguish the flames.

Fire officials estimated the total damage in the fire to be $18,000.

Granite City firefighters worked for 90 minutes to put out the fire. They were called back to the scene twice to extinguish rekindling embers.

Held on charge of firing a gun

Willie Odee Walton, 20, East St. Louis, was transferred Aug. 6 from the Venice police station to the Madison County jail at Edwardsville. The transfer followed an Aug. 5 court appearance by Walton in Granite City on charges of reckless conduct, unlawful use of a weapon and not having a valid firearm owner's identification card.

He pleaded innocent, requesting a non-jury trial, and bond was set at $7,000.

The charges were filed by Venice officers after Madison Garrett Jr., operator of Garrett's Cut Rate Liquor, 337 Weaver St., alleged a man fired a gun inside the store.

A patron alleged Walton stood up and fired a .38-caliber snubnose revolver into the floor after he and Walton exchanged words.

CANNABIS CHARGES FILED

After investigating a pickup truck parked at the rear of a liquor store at 4th street and Broadway in Venice at 1:15 a.m. Aug. 3, officers alleged seeing a plastic bag containing a green leafy substance and a pack of papers laying on the vehicle's seat. Charged with possession of cannabis were Daniel E. VanWie, 20, David Chamberlain, 23, and John Nagel, 22, all of East Alton. Each was released, pending hearings Sept. 6, after posting $102 cash bail.

Burglary discovered at house fire

An arson investigation has been ordered on a fire at the Cyril Jacobs residence, 2620 Highway 3, Aug. 3.

Madison County Sheriff's Department reports said officers arrived at the fire at 1:30 a.m. Firefighters were already on the scene.

Upon arrival, authorities discovered some items were missing from the home, including five guns, a radio, a television set and two citizen band radios. An inventory of missing items is being compiled.

Authorities speculated a burglar might have set the fire after looting the home. The cause of the blaze is not known and they have not ruled out arson.

Horseshoe Lake practice investigated

Concern over a recent fish kill at Horseshoe Lake has prompted an investigation by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

Eric Merz, a field representative for the IEPA, said Friday an investigation into the situation showed nothing illegal is being done.

Merz said Department of Conservation officials at the lake conduct a lowering of certain parts of the lake on a yearly basis. As a result of the lowered water, some fish are trapped and die.

The IEPA official said the water-lowering practice is part of a management plan for the lake which has been approved by the DOC. After the water is lowered, a feed for ducks is planted and the area is used for duck hunting.

Merz investigated the practice after several residents raised inquiries into the reason for the fish kill.

Merz said the DOC officials at the lake inform local residents when they are about to lower the lake and then the residents are free to collect the trapped fish for food.

2 DRUG WARRANTS SERVED

Joyce A. Marrs, 29, of 2015 Washington Ave. was arrested by Granite City police Aug. 4 on two felony warrants from the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois alleging unlawful controlled substance deliveries and a Madison County warrant alleging failure to appear on a disorderly conduct charge.

CASH AND TOOLS TAKEN

Ron Zimmerman of Economy Transmission, 2550 Washington Ave., said Aug. 8 someone pried open a door of the shop and took $30 cash and two toolboxes containing miscellaneous tools.

MOTORCYCLIST INJURED, HITS CHAIN LINK FENCE

Michael J. Fenoglio, 17, of 2520 Circle Drive was injured Aug. 8 when his motorcycle ran into a chain link fence at 703 N. 29th St. He declined medical treatment.

Fenoglio said he was headed north on Circle Drive when he lost control of the vehicle and went west down the right side of the road, striking the fence on the property of William Scroggins.

Choir members competed in sectional, state and regional contests to become eligible for the national event, according to the director, Pastor Don Stratton, and the Rev. Barry Shepherd, youth director.

All of junior or senior high school age, the members are Jennifer Ash, Melissa Cooper, Dawn Lamb, Alan and Lisa Lenzi, Becky and Lori Hildreth, Keith Mathenia and Jill Tracy.

They are all members of the church and have been together as a choir for two years. They normally practice weekly, but prior to a contest they practice each night.

They are available to perform at other churches or at civic meetings in this area, the minister said. The church office telephone number is 931-4500.

Baptists campaign to fund TV station

Baptist churches in the greater St. Louis area and Madison County are constructing and operating a low-power television station.

The Madison County Baptist Association, 620 Engineer Road, Mitchell, set a goal of $20,000 for the project, which was started by the St. Louis Metro Baptist Association with $10,000.

The Illinois Baptist State Association and Missouri Baptist Convention have shown interest and may assist, according to L. D. Patrick, director of MCBA.

Plans are to begin the LPTV project with 100 watts of power. As soon as the Federal Communications Commission gives permission, in about a year, the power will be increased to 1,000 watts.

Patrick said, "Our goal is to receive $250,000 which will be sufficient to carry us through both phases of this adventure. The churches and individuals in the St. Louis area have given, in cash and pledges, $170,000. This includes the $20,000 pledge from MCBA."

"If one man, the Rev. Larry Rice of St. Louis, can operate Channel 24, surely all the Baptists combined in this area can bring into fruition Channel 56."

Willy Wonka to appear at Six Flags

Willy Wonka from "Charlie and the Chocolate Factory" will be flying in from Wonkaland to visit Six Flags Over Mid-America in St. Louis on Tuesday, Aug. 20, and Wednesday, Aug. 21, to perform safety and nutrition magic before an assembled audience. The show times will be Tuesday: 12:15-12:30 p.m., 1:30-1:45 p.m., 3:15-3:30 p.m., 4:45-5 p.m.; and Wednesday: 12:15-12:30 p.m., 1:45-2 p.m., 3:15-3:30 p.m.

During Willy Wonka's appearance at Six Flags he will have the opportunity to visit Looney Tunes Town, the new themed children's area featuring more of the kids' favorite characters, such as Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck, Sylvester, Foghorn Leghorn, Yosemite Sam and his pals. In conjunction with the addition of Looney Tunes Town, Six Flags is offering special children's tickets for ages 3-11, with a savings of more than 25 percent off the regular one-day adult admission.

Willy Wonka is participating in a crusade to help alleviate the increasing number of missing children in the United States.

While employing magic, Willy warns his young audience, "Never enter a stranger's car, even if you are told there is a surprise inside." While magically linking together three separate strands of red, yellow and green rope, the "safety magician" teaches his viewers about traffic safety.

Wherever he appears, he leaves behind nutrition tips for America's youth. During another trick, Willy explains, "Good nutrition is as easy as one-two-three-four," as he waves his hand and four coins drop from behind the ear of an audience volunteer.

Candy and magic have long been a part of Willy Wonka's life, fans say. He has captivated audiences at many amusement parks, children's hospitals, schools, community centers and fairs.

St. Louis zoo sponsors third annual Wildlife Art Walk

For the third consecutive year, wild animals may be appreciated in both living form and as captured in art, when the St. Louis Zoo Friends Association hosts its annual Wildlife Art Walk on Saturday, Aug. 17, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. outdoors on the grounds of the St. Louis Zoo.

Through a jury selection process, 50 artists representing six states have been chosen to exhibit and sell their works in either of the following categories:

1. Flat — Oil/Acrylic/Water media/Drawing/Pastels

2. Dimensional — sculpture/Ceramics/Fire Art on Fiber, Wood, Metal, Glass.

A total of $1,400 in prizes will be awarded ($700 in each category). Judging this year's event is James Faulkner, a wildlife artist whose reputation is know-nationwide.

Zoo enthusiasts Susan and Tom Jarrett are co-chairmen for the event.

"We are excited by the fine quality of the work being presented this year, and our artists are excited, as always, by the unique setting of our show," said Mrs. Jarrett.

Many of the participating artists are nationally known and have been featured in Wildlife Art Publications. These artists include Eileen Melton, Pat O'Connor, Al Agnew, 1984 Wildlife Art Walk winner, and Jeff Littlejohn, whose sculpture of wolves was auctioned off at Marlin Perkins' 80th birthday party.

For more information regarding the art show, interested persons may call the St. Louis Zoo at 1-314-647-8210.

Wake up to new Pet-Ritz fruit cobbler

Streusel comes to cobbler. For the lovers of streusel topping, the Frozen Foods Division of Pet Inc. has brought the crumbly treat to its new line of fruit desserts — Pet-Ritz Crumb Cobblers.

The streusel topping on these fruit desserts makes them the only cobblers of their kind on the market. The cobblers come in four fruit-filled flavors: peach, blackberry, apple and cherry.

"The sweet, crumbly streusel topping offers a taste which is different from our regular cobblers and which we believe will be very popular with our customers," said David Twillmann, product manager.

"Crumb Cobblers will complement our existing regular fruit cobblers by giving the consumer a new choice. We think they will be as popular as our regular cobblers, which have done very well."

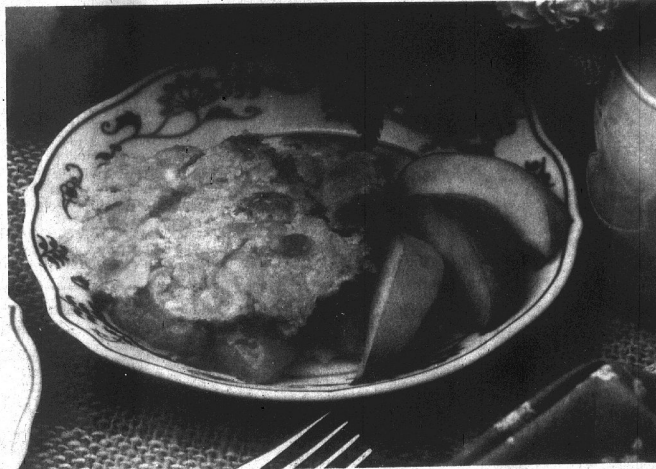

Pet-Ritz Cobblers are the leading sellers in the market. The company's line of regular cobblers, in fact, has sales three times that of their nearest competitor, company officials said.

The Crumb Cobblers are being introduced to test markets in St. Louis and Florida. They entered test markets in Kansas City, San Francisco, Phoenix and Salt Lake City earlier this year. The company plans to have full national distribution by the fall of 1985.

Each 26-ounce cobbler comes in its own, ready-to-heat tin and features three layers — the streusel topping, mounds of fruit and a layer of golden crust.

For more information on the Crumb Cobbler, the toll-free telephone number is 1-800-325-1783.

Pros, cons of second river lock debated at public meeting

By JIM KULP
A second lock in the new Alton Lock and Dam 26 was described as a "safety valve" by a proponent and an "economic albatross" by an opponent.

The remarks were among several expressed Aug. 8 at a public meeting sponsored by the St. Louis District, Army Corps of Engineers. The purpose of the meeting, held in the Bel Air Hilton in downtown St. Louis, was to obtain public input into preparation of an Economic Impact Statement (EIS) on a second lock.

THE CORPS has been authorized to proceed with engineering and design of the new lock, work which includes an EIS. Construction of the $220 million lock was authorized by Congress on Aug. 1.

Col. Gary Beech, outgoing St. Louis district engineer, said the draft EIS would be ready in mid-1986 and the final EIS in early 1987. The contract could be awarded in 1988.

Beech said the second lock is required in case the first lock is closed for repairs, and to take care of future navigation needs.

THE AUDIENCE of 50 persons — divided into proponents and opponents — traded charges against each other.

Darryl Thompson, of the Port Advisory Council of the Port of Metropolitan St. Louis said competing sides in the Alton Lock and Dam 26 controversy have "fought for so long, they can no longer focus on the issue," which is the whole Midwest.

Thompson said the dam is the key to opening the door to thousands of jobs and economic development in the region.

THE WATER transportation industry has brought grain to the starving, and shipped fuel and coal so consumers can have a better life; the second lock, he added, is the "safety valve" to keeping river transportation working.

THE NATIONAL Iron Ore Institute spoke for the national Sierra Club, which believes the second lock "will be an economic albatross around the neck of taxpayers and an unconscionable waste of $220 million on a pork barrel project."

BENSMAN CHARGED that the corps does not have the authority to undertake preparation of an EIS because Congress has not authorized it. He said the corps' own records indicated there is no need for a second lock, because predicted tonnage figures for the Mississippi River have not been fulfilled.

In fact, he said, tonnage peaked in 1983 and has been sharply decreasing since then. If the trend continues, the corps' predictions for 1985 will be off by 40 percent and tonnage will be the lowest since 1973, he said.

The second lock, Bensman said, will be an underutilized "white elephant," and the corps and river industry will try to stimulate increased navigation traffic with "extreme impacts on the environmental, cultural and recreational resources and the scenery of the Upper Mississippi and Illinois rivers."

BEECH REPLIED that the corps' authority exists in public law. He also said the corps' cost/benefit ratio figures "will stand scrutiny, though he acknowledged that tonnage is down."

However, he said, tonnage will be reviewed and monitored and "we hope the long-term loss of grain (shipping) won't last."

More than two-thirds of the tonnage shipped is grain, Beech added, and it is important to farmers in the Midwest.

He said every form of transportation receives some subsidies, and it is not the corps' job to determine that issue.

OTHER INDIVIDUALS and organizations presenting statements at the meeting included:

• Clyde Wiseman, former mayor of Alton and now with the St. Louis Regional and Growth Association, who said the organization had been the most consistent supporter of the dam project. He said the Mississippi River Basin Commission had found no EIS was necessary for a second lock. Not to include a second lock while construction was under way, he said, would be "a grievous waste of resources...we urge any scheduling of a second lock not be delayed."

• Jerry Tinkey of Alton, vice president of operations, Mid-America Transportation Co., who said $90 million would be saved if the second lock is phased in during the dam's construction. Lock and Dam 26 without a second lock would be "a weak link," he said. Tinkey said he had always been close to the Mississippi River as a boy and now as a barge line executive. "We do care about the river, its environmental qualities, its sportsmen and recreation...but most of all, we care about this country, and that is the issue. A second lock will not endanger the qualities we love."

• Jim Swift, vice president and general manager of The Waterways

Journal, said "our competitor," Russia, is spending millions to improve waterways. Only one lock in the dam, he said, would endanger the U.S. economy and military capability because it would bottle up vessels needed in time of war.

• Jerry Lavelle, port engineer of the Tri-City Regional Port District, said the second lock is needed to take care of future capacity — and because only one lock could be shut down for repairs.

• Dan Pierce of Belleville, representing Friends of the Earth, an environmental organization, urged the corps to consider erosion of the river banks and increased industrialization of the floodplain in the EIS. He also was concerned about the design of the second lock, which he said seems to indicate the corps plans a future 12-foot channel in the Mississippi. Environmentalists fear great ecological damage could occur from a channel 12 feet deep.

Beech replied that a mid-1980s study done on a 12-foot channel showed it was not feasible economically.

• American Waterways Operators, Washington, D.C., said in a statement that, beginning in 1988, a fuel tax of 11 cents per gallon will be imposed on navigation, and rise in 1-cent increments until it reaches 20 cents a gallon. That means the river industry is contributing its fair share to waterways development.

• Norman Stuckey, Missouri Department of Conservation, said the Upper Mississippi River is a nationally significant resource, with $1 billion spent annually on recreation there. The master plan drafted by the Upper Mississippi River Basin Commission would achieve a long overdue balance of this resource, he said. Congress must approve the plan before there is any more construction. The plan should be moved forward as a package, and proceeding with a second lock erodes the intent of the master plan, he concluded.

Student loan defaulters could face tax refund loss

Student loan defaulters, take note.

The Illinois State Scholarship Commission (ISSC), the state agency that guarantees student loans under the Illinois Guaranteed Student Loan Program (IGLP), is giving them a last warning: begin paying or forfeit a federal tax refund beginning with the 1985 tax year.

Development group sparks 500 new jobs

Metro East business development is moving to the front burner.

It is being predicted there will be much to talk about at the third annual meeting of the Southwestern Illinois Areawide Business Development Finance Corporation, at the Southern Edge Restaurant in Greenville on Aug. 22.

SINCE BECOMING an SBA 503 certified development company in December 1982, the SIABDFC has leveraged nearly $4 million in Small Business financing and $6 million of private financing.

The result has been the creation of over 500 jobs for residents of Bond, Clinton, Madison, Monroe, St. Clair, Randolph and Washington Counties, a spokesman said.

Directors include Madison County Board chairman Nelson Hagnauer. Four SIABDFC loans are listed in the St. Louis Business Journal's "25 Largest St. Louis area SBA 503 projects."

THE SIABDFC was created in 1982 through the efforts of southwestern Illinois bankers, elected officials, business owners, and the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission.

Membership in the organization has grown to include nearly 100 banks, local governments, and business organizations.

The Small Business Administration 503 program offers several benefits to private lenders and borrowers.

BENEFITS to the borrower include low down payment (10 percent of fixed asset costs), long term (15, 20 or 25 year) and a fixed interest rate on up to 40 percent of fixed asset costs.

Benefits to the private lender include exposure limited to 50 percent, first position on 100 percent of the collateral, and no additional paperwork.

SBA 503 financing can be used by eligible small businesses to purchase real estate and long-lived equipment, and to construct or renovate facilities to be used by the business.

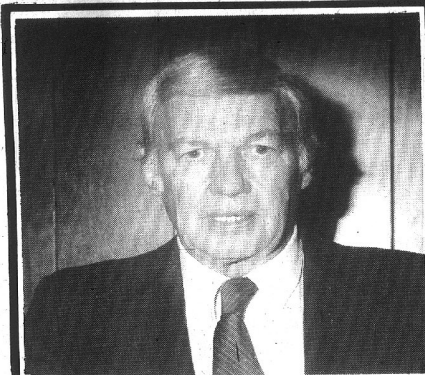

Ineligible projects include non-profit organizations, newspapers and magazines, financial institutions, and investment companies.

IN ADDITION to hearing about the SIABDFC's accomplishments of the past year, 150 members and guests will hear a presentation by James Thompson, director of all U.S. SBA activities in Southern Illinois.

Thompson will speak on "proposed SBA 503 and guaranty loan changes and the future of SBA."

Persons interested in attending the meeting or obtaining more information about the SIABDFC may contact Debbie Groeteka at 344-4080. The office is at 203 W. Main St., Collinsville.

Season Follow-up

Tradition, hard work key to Paddlers' success

By JIM BLASINGAME

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Granite City's Paddlers swimming and diving teams have created something of a dynasty over the past several years. Now, they're not quite the Boston Celtics of the water world, but the two squads have combined for nine out of a possible 10 Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association championships in the last five seasons.

Diving coach Gayle McCormick has headed the Paddlers program for 15 seasons. And although she has guided her divers to five consecutive SWISA titles, McCormick says that Paddlers has always "placed in the top three (spots of the seven-team league)."

The swimming team is no different. Under the tutelage of Celeste Sonnenberg, Paddlers swimmers have won five of the last six SWISA championships, and have dropped only one dual meet in Sonnenberg's six-year tenure.

But why Paddlers? How has this Granite City club come to know, enjoy and expect that kind of success in swimming and diving competition? Granite City isn't exactly the Malibu Beach of St. Louis, so why does Paddlers dominate so in this swimsuit competition.

"It's the conglomeration of kids," said McCormick. "They enjoy what they do, and they all help each other out. And the kids are hard workers. They work hard at practice and even work hard in their leisure time, which is when you really learn it."

Sure, sure. But what's the real secret? The kids are born under water, right?

"We just have a lot of talented kids. They're a good group. They listen to what I have to say at practice, and I've never had a problem with any of them. They aren't there to goof off," McCormick said. "The kids are what really makes the team."

Not surprisingly, Sonnenberg echoes those statements about the work ethic.

"I think the main reason (for Paddlers' success) is that the kids swim in the winter to stay in shape," she said. "They really take a lot of pride in themselves, and they are close to each other. They know everybody from school, and they all want to win together. They're really close."

Like all outstanding teams, Paddlers is blessed with two fine coaches. Both have goals that include more important achievements than just winning times and dives.

Sonnenberg, a grade school instructor at Blessed Sacrament in Belleville, uses a firm hand during practice time — a trait she has acquired from teaching.

"Sometimes people say that I'm too hard on the kids," Sonnenberg said. "I think I got that from teaching because you have to use discipline to control that age group."

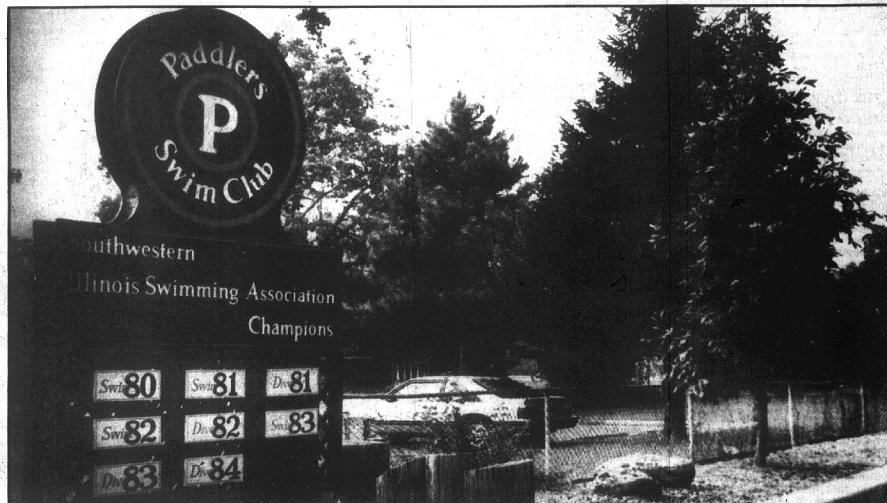

"Some (swimmers) can't do it (excel), so I don't push as hard as I do the ones that can. I really believe in trying to get the most out of the kids. Winning is nice, but it's not the end result. I'd rather improve their self-image than have a trophy sit on the shelf at the end of the year. If a trophy is nice, but it doesn't prove anything."

McCormick, who began her diving career at Paddlers and later competed at the national level, talks freely about the importance of healthy parent support.

"I respect any parents who don't push their kids into sports," McCormick said. "Leave your kids alone. Let them do it on their own. They'll hold their interest a lot longer and enjoy it a lot more."

That seems to be the Paddlers secret to success. Happy youngsters and good coaches make the Paddlers Swim Club a winner. But will the tradition continue?

"Every year more and more kids

PADDLERS' PRIDE. A testament to Paddlers' Swim Club success is the sign outside its Johnson Road location which displays the swim and dive championships its teams have won during recent years. This season, again, the local

(from other squads) swim during the winter," Sonnenberg said. "That makes it harder to win during the summer. We're getting a lot more competition, which is good." "I keep holding my breath," McCormick said. "It's a shame that we swim club has captured both Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association titles which means that shortly two additional plaques will soon adorn the sign outside.

don't have a place to work out all year round. The kids could work out and become a lot better than what they are." "But once you're the team to beat, everybody's after you."

Inter-City Baseball

Ficker is keeping McDonald's respectable

By GREGG OCHOA

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — When Rick Ficker took over as the manager of McDonald's in the Illinois Inter-City Baseball League this year, he knew he was filling some big shoes.

Ficker replaced long time pilot Ray Harris who had a successful 10-year career leading McDonald's. In fact, just season the team took second place in the league.

"I kind of took the job hesitantly," Ficker said. "Ray had got married again and wanted to get out. He asked everybody associated with the team if they wanted (the job)."

"He had talked to me about it earlier, but I didn't know if I wanted it. But when he couldn't get anyone else, I took it right before the season started because I didn't want to see the team fold," Ficker said.

Considering the circumstances, Ficker hasn't done that bad. Going into this Sunday game's with the Eagles, McDonald's had fashioned a 10-11 mark. The team had a doubleheader washed out last week against East Alton.

In the league's other game involving local teams, the Chiefs (7-16) will host the hot Brooklyn Robins (18-3) in a 1 p.m. doubleheader at Maxvill Field in Wilson Park.

This year McDonald's has been a victim of the league's expansion. Brooklyn in its second year as a member of the league has the best overall record. East St. Louis, a new entry, is second in the Red Division at 18-5.

Both teams are in the same division with McDonald's.

There are only two weeks left in the season and only the top two teams in each division qualify for the post-season playoffs. As it stands now, the team with the fast-food restaurant's name would be gobbled in the numbers game.

"Looks like we will come up a little short," Ficker said. "But it's my first year (as manager). I didn't really expect that much."

The Red Division is the clearly dominate group with two of its four teams well over the .500 mark and McDonald's one game below.

"Brooklyn is tough," Ficker said. "They were good before, but have really put it together this year."

In the Blue Division, the Eagles, who play their home games at Lee Park in Venice, are 18-3 and have virtually locked up the divisional title. They are the only team in the division with a winning record. The division has just three teams since the Maryville Red Sox dropped because of lack of players. The Sox were 7-17 at the time.

Ficker said the team really has no one to blame except itself. Missed opportunities have hurt McDonald's.

"We dropped some close games, some really dumb games, early in the season," the manager said.

Lack of players also have hurt the team. Sometimes only nine players are available for a doubleheader.

"I wish we had a little more dedication," Ficker said. "Some of the guys would do anything they could, but then there are others who just show up when they want to."

While several members of the team sport lofty averages, Ficker says the team's offensive production is not an accurate reflection of the statistics.

"That's been one of our problems. We've been hot and cold. In the first game of the season we scored 10 runs in the first inning. Then after that we had problems scoring."

Ficker said. "We lost to the Ambassadors (East St. Louis) in two close games that we should have won."

Centerfielder Ken Wilson has been the team's most consistent hitter at .439. He is also solid defensively.

Jeff Parker is battling .351 after a rocky start. Kevin Sykes, the team's regular second baseman, was hitting over .300. However, he was slowed by a pulled hamstring suffered while playing softball and was lost for four weeks.

Ficker added hard-hitting Dan Bixler from Maryville to his roster. Bixler's .346 average should help the team. Infielder John Brenick (.325) has also contributed this year. First baseman Tom Stegemeyer has been solid in the field and is hitting .282.

McDonald's has received good pitching this season, but a lot of times wasted it. "Their records don't tell the story. A lot of times they pitched well, but we just didn't give them any help," Ficker said.

Left-hander Mike Zukas has been the team's top hurler. Zukas has a 5-4 record with a 3.22 ERA. Included are 44 strikeouts. Zukas is also second in the league in innings pitched with 63.

Randy Cann is the team's second pitcher. While Cann's record is not that of Zukas, he has chipped in. One of Cann's victories this season came against Brooklyn.

Dave Ficker, the manager's brother, handles the pitching staff from behind home plate. At mid-season, McDonald's signed Vince Mitchell who played college ball at Peru State College in Nebraska.

Mitchell who prepped at Granite City North has added depth to the infield.

"He's my back-up catcher but what's good about Vince is that he can play almost everywhere," Ficker said.

Overall defense has been McDonald's strength this season, especially in the infield. Ficker boasts that when Stegemeyer, Sykes, Parker and Brenick are healthy; they are a deadly combination.

"I think they are one of the best infields in the league. They work together well and make very few errors."

After playing the Eagles today (Sunday), McDonald's winds up its season on Sunday, Aug. 18 at East St. Louis. There is no word, however, whether or not the rainout with East Alton will be rescheduled.

GCHS' Girls Soccer Coach

Velloff accepts Marquette job

By JOE THOMPSON

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Mike Velloff, who guided the Granite City High girls soccer team to an 8-3 record in its first season last fall, has added another soccer coaching cap.

Velloff confirmed Wednesday he has been hired to succeed Joe Gentelin as the boys head soccer coach at Marquette High School in Alton.

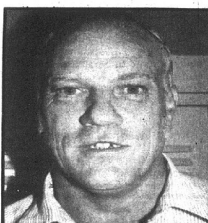

Velloff, an elementary teacher at Prather, is no stranger to Marquette soccer. Along with Gentelin, Velloff has been with the program since it was started seven years ago.

Velloff has assisted Gentelin in coaching the varsity team, in addition to coaching the junior varsity squad.

The hiring of the 45-year-old Velloff to head the soccer program ensures a smooth transition.

"He (Gentelin) talked to me ahead of time about taking the position. He wanted to know if I would take the position at Marquette."

"I know the players," pointed out

Mike Velloff

Velloff. "We want to make everything work well for the school, all the players involved. I told him, 'sure.'"

Marquette finished at 9-9-3 last year. But the record was not a clear indicator of the success the program has achieved. Two years ago, Marquette captured its regional tournament and battled Granite City in a 2-0 defeat in the sectional tournament.

Gentelin, a close friend of Velloff, resigned the position to become assistant boys soccer coach at Alton High.

Gentelin's decision places him directly in line to succeed current Alton soccer coach Larry Montgomery, who has said publicly he will coach this coming season and then resign.

The Redbirds enjoyed their brightest moment ever last fall, defeating perennial power Granite City for the sectional title qualifying them for the first state playoff appearance. The Redbirds lost in the first round.

"Joe and I are friends," said Velloff. "He talked to me about it (Alton's offer). I told him to go ahead and take it."

"It's a move for his benefit," said Velloff.

The coaching changes should only enliven an already heated but friendly rivalry between the only two high school soccer teams in Alton.

Though they have met only in playoff action in past years, the two schools might now compete during the regular season, Velloff said.

In winning eight of 11 matches, including a split with Collinsville, the Warriors' girls soccer team was a big hit under Velloff.

At least three girls — Dawn Schwartz, Maria Parra and Kathy Thornsberry — have accepted college soccer scholarship offers.

Thornsberry will play soccer at Lindenwood College. Parra and Schwartz will compete at Missouri Baptist.

Coaching the boys varsity at Marquette should only help him in his head coaching duties at Granite City, Velloff pointed out.

"To me, soccer is something you constantly learn about," Velloff said. "The more you coach, the more you learn."
